

September 9, 2017

There was a provocation in our building area this morning. The children were invited to build using different materials and draw their buildings. They could choose to make a plan before building or sketch their structures later.

At meeting, we talked about architects and how they create plans or designs for buildings. After meeting, everyone chose to work together in our building area.

"I am an airplane architect!"
- Darby

"I'm drawing a house. A red house." –
Norah
"Who is going to build the house?"
"Those guys! They're working on it now."
– Norah

"I made a bridge!" – Norah
"I can be a bridge, too." - Leo
